Structures for Architects: Gauld, Bryan J.B ...

This manual has been prepared with the object of helping the student architect gain the essentials of basic structures. The many worked examples included in the text have been selected to show the types of structural problems the recently qualified architect will meet in the field. These examples have been introduced in an effort to reduce the gap between classroom theory and practice. The book has also been designed to help students produce good structural schemes, marrying good design and ...
